

You Can Get Business Where Business Is Good!

The man to-day who is not affected by unsettled business conditions—the man who is not suffering from the crop failures of the West—IS THE FARMER OF VIRGINIA AND NORTH CAROLINA.

Prosperity in the South

Never since war times have crops been more plentiful, or prices higher than now. The glad days for the Middle South farmer have come.

Southern Farmers Have the Money to Buy the Best--

The Southern people are naturally a luxurious people. They do not tend to hoarding their money, but spend it freely when times are good. Now they have had a successful season and "the best is none too good."

Talk to them through the advertising columns of the Southern Planter. Year in and year out, it is one of the best pulling papers throughout the country. It heads the list with many big national advertisers. One of the biggest is the Wm. Galloway Co.

What Wm. Galloway Company Says:

In placing their order for this season's business, they wrote:

"We do not believe there is another paper in the United States, distance and everything considered, that has made as good a showing with us as the Southern Planter."

ACADEMY NAMES DR. CARRINGTON

Elected President of Organization That May Take More Active Part in Health Matters.

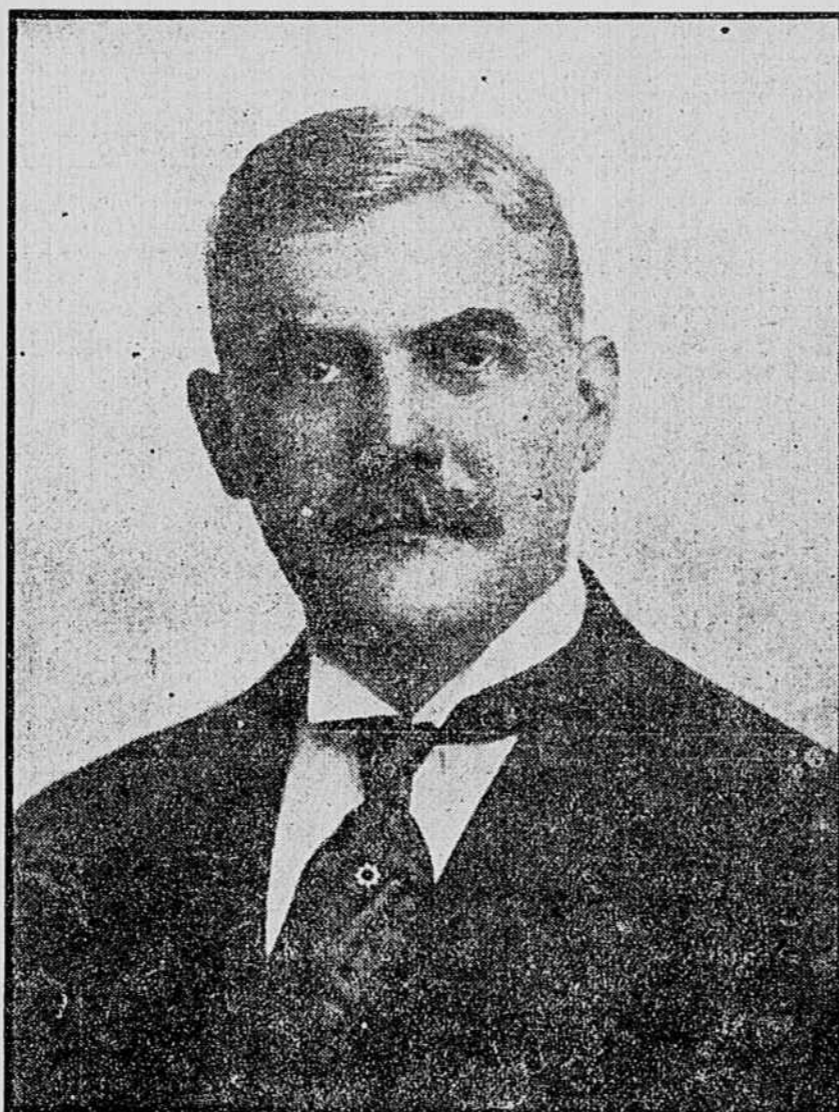

Dr. Charles V. Carrington, one of the best-known physicians in the city, former surgeon at the Virginia State Penitentiary, and a member of the City Democratic Committee, was last night elected president of the Richmond Academy of Medicine and Surgery. Other officers were elected as follows: first vice-president, Dr. Grover Baughman; second vice-president, Dr. Thomas W. Murrell; third vice-president, Dr. J. Fulmer Bright; secretary for the twenty-first year, Dr. Mark W. Peyer; assistant secretary, Dr. E. H. Terrell; treasurer, Dr. W. A. Shepherd; librarian, Dr. G. Paul LaRogue; judiciary committee, Dr. Clifton M. Miller, Dr. Moses D. Hoge, Dr. H. H. Levy, Dr. Mc-Guire Newton, Dr. Robert C. Bryan and Dr. A. L. Gray.

Dr. Charles L. Brock was elected to membership. The nomination of several new members were made and laid over to the next meeting. Dr. Leonard Cherry, of Charleston, S. C., who was expected to make an address, was unavoidably detained, and will speak at some later time. The annual banquet of the academy will take place at the first meeting in January.

Reports were submitted last night by the secretary and treasurer. The most significant feature of the report of Secretary Peyer was a recommendation that the academy enlarge its usefulness to the community by taking a more aggressive part in public affairs. Dr. Peyer urged that it was the duty of the society not only to its members, but to the public generally, to avail itself of its opportunities to stand for better conditions in civic affairs, particularly as they affect the public health. At his request, the report was referred to the ways and means committee, and may be made the subject of a resolution to be reported to a later meeting, putting the organization on record as favoring a more aggressive work for the benefit of the entire community.

HONORED BY DOCTORS

DR. CHARLES V. CARRINGTON.

BILLPOSTER KAHN PAYS FINE OF $60

Isidore Kahn, employed as a helper by Robert W. Waltt, an advertising agent, paid $60 and costs yesterday morning in Police Court for defacing the windows of many business houses with show bills, and cursing the police. A fine of $60 was imposed in the former instance, and on the charge of using vile language, preferred by Patrolman Williams, he was assessed $10. He paid both fines.

Waltt, who was arraigned on the same charge, was dismissed, as it could not be proved that he actually put up any of the bills in violation of the city ordinance.

Kahn testified that he put up the bills under instructions from the Lyric Theatre management. It was suggested that Edward P. Lyons, the manager, be summoned to court, but Justice Griggs ruled otherwise. No one connected with the Lyric of any authority showed himself in court.

The windows were plastered with theatre posters early Sunday morning, and the result was a vigorous protest from the merchants and many other business men.

WORTHY SOCIETY AND ITS GOOD WORK

St. Ann's Benevolent Society to Hold Forth at Weisberger's Big Store.

At this season of the year, when more than ever the spirit of charity seems to abide in the hearts of the people, St. Ann's Benevolent Society, an organization which has for years been dispensing charity on a large scale, desires to call attention to the work it is doing, not simply through self-exaltation, but through the hope that other younger organizations may profit by adopting some of its methods in dispensing charity, which have proven so effective in the past. The more charity and benevolent organizations there are working in harmony the more advantageously is the cause of charity promoted and the more is the burden of helping the needy shared by various organizations, and hence made lighter for each. It is said that the workings of the society have been such as to be copied in some cities outside of Richmond.

Like all other organizations, the society is composed of a corps of executive officers. Besides a president, vice-president, treasurer and secretary, there are two disbursers, and various visitors for the poor and the sick. It is through the work of the visitors that the society produces its most effective results. The city is divided into ten districts. Each district has on an average of from two to four visitors, whose special duties consist in discovering, visiting and providing for the poor, the needy, sick and the mentally distressed of their district. The visitors associate with themselves, when needed, other members of the society living within the district. No matter whether the needy profess any form of religious belief or not, aid is given in all needy cases. The work is one solely of humanitarian nature, and not denominational, as regards the recipients of the charity.

Besides the active members there are many members who, through force of circumstances, cannot visit the needy. These do their part through contributions. Various means of raising money for the poor during the year are devised. Every Wednesday a number of members, under the direction of Mrs. S. A. Lee and Miss Ann Lee, meet at a sewing circle and make clothes for the poor. Once a month general meetings are held, reports read, and plans for the next month's work are discussed. In order to spare the feelings of the poor, as far as possible, secrecy is maintained as to the names of those who are helped.

On Thursday the Weisberger Company has decided to aid in the work done by St. Ann's through a donation of 10 per cent of the total sales of that day. Members of the society, in charge of a committee, will be scattered throughout the Weisberger store all day Thursday to meet the general public and to aid the corps of clerks in attending to the wants of the patrons. The committee desires to state that the society has the guarantee of the Weisberger Company that not only will the prices of goods be as low as the lowest, but that many distinct bargains in the different departments will be in evidence on Thursday.

NO MURDER MYSTERY

Wild Yarn About Body in a Trunk Fails to Pan Out on Investigation. While the mystery did not reach the stage where it required a police investigation, baggage agents at the Southern Railway explained last night that there was no occasion for the report, which received wide circulation, that the body of a dying man was taken from a trunk at the station early Monday morning. Long after midnight a wagon arrived at the station with a big trunk which was placed in the baggage room. Porters and yardmen who were sitting near it were alarmed by strange sounds from within. Men on express wagons which arrived later were also startled, though nobody reported the matter to the police.

Several hours later when a stranger appeared to check the trunk he had no claim check, and the agents refused to accept his word that it was his property until he had opened it and identified his effects. They insisted on an examination, because they believed the trunk contained a man. The owner promptly complied, and the astonished agents and porters saw him bring forth an alarm clock that was still ticking. This is all there is to the wild yarn about a murder.
